HAND TINTED PRINTS

Hand tinting a photographic print is done by using a color transparent oil directly on the surface of the black and white print. The result is a blend of subtle coloration that mixes with the image, creating a unique and original work of art.

CYANOTYPE PRINTS

The cyanotype print is created through a hand made printing process that was used by photographers in the latter part of the nineteenth century. It is unmistakable because of its wonderful cool blue hues. This is achieved by hand coating a fine art paper with ferric ammonium citrate (iron base metal), and potassium ferro cyanide in a solution. The paper is then exposed in sunlight and dried, after which it is washed in water. The typically wonderful blue print is the result.

PLATINUM PRINTS

The platinum print is one of the richest, and most expensive form of photographic print making. A platinum print is created by hand coating a sheet of fine artist's paper with the emulsion of photosensitive platinum metals. The platinum emulsion is absorbed, therefore becomes part of the paper itself. Each image radiates a three dimensional warmth. Platinum prints are unique and are the preferred medium of master printmakers.

Richard D'Amore's work has been published in numerous publications (a small selection is enclosed), and has been collected by a both eclectic and well known number of private collectors.
